Project Description

If you looking to take your graphic design skills to the next level, consider joining one of the federal government’s most successful social media teams – VA’s office of Digital Media Engagement. DME is a small, flexible group of professionals that value innovative ideas and out of the box thinking. As a Graphic Design Intern, you will learn the fundamentals of operating in a cabinet-level agency while reaching out to upwards of 21 million Veterans and their family members with important information about compensation, health care, education and other benefits. At the Department of Veterans Affairs, you’ll have plenty of work to both hone your skills and contribute to the team’s success. Apply today to join a team where your ideas will be explored and your opinions appreciated.

As a Graphic Design Intern your typical work assignments may include:

Planning, designing, developing, modifying and completing visual information projects for print and web-based visual media products to communicate with Veterans, their family members and the public on matters affecting their daily lives from health care and insurance to monetary compensation and suicide prevention. A major focus of this work will be focus on the Veteran of the Day and other graphics supporting the Department of Veterans Affairs mission to serve America’s Veterans. Additional Information

Please take the time to view our blog to see the various graphics types our team produces. If you are selected for this internship, this is the level of work you will be expected to produce. Also, check out some of our Veteran of the Day posts <http://www.blogs.va.gov/VAntage/category/veteran/>. The Veteran of the Day graphics, until the end of April, were created almost exclusively by interns just like you.

Also, please be aware that you will be expected to have your own computer, and your own graphic design software as they will not be provided for a virtual internship. This has not seemed to be an issue for previous graphic design interns.
